Nick
I respond to your email below as we have been discussing matters with Nicola, not least in view of the substantial fees owing to Withers which gives rise to a joint interest in reaching an agreement with Barclays so that Warwick House can be sold. Nicola has also shared the agreement between you and her set out in the letter dated 9 April 2018. It is Nicola's intention to terminate the agreement with you and I believe that she will be doing that by email imminently. It is also fair to point out that we have advised Nicola that no fee will be payable by her to you in these circumstances.
Regards

Dear Andrew,

I am writing to ask for an update regarding Barclays. As you know, Nicola instructed me some time ago to secure compensation from Barclays in relation to the mortgages granted by Barclays Bank PLC to Ziad Takieddine (via his companies) in February 2009, including the loan of GBP 6,000,000 to Warwick Estates Limited secured against Warwick House, 8 Addison Crescent, London W14 8JP and the loan of EUR 6,000,000 to SCI Lamartine secured against 40, Avenue Georges Mandel, Paris 75116.

A great deal of work has been done on the matter pursuant to that instruction and some months ago the bank offered a meeting to discuss settlement. I am concerned that the meeting has been delayed for such a long time and I do not understand the reasons for the delay, although it appears to be related to the dishonest and conflicted involvement of political figures including Lord Cromwell, Vice-Chair of the All-Party Parliamentary Group on Fair Business Banking, and his assistant Heather Buchanan, who have been seeking to replace Nicola's advisors with Simon Reevell, a former MP and barrister with whom they have close links. Their involvement is inappropriate given that Lord Cromwell was Vice-President in the relevant division of Barclays Wealth at all material times and has an apparent interest in closing down the case against his former colleagues, who are implicated in serious criminal conduct including fraud, money-laundering, the facilitation of tax evasion and other offences under the Proceeds of Crime Act 2002.

The recent conviction of Ziad Takieddine for related offences and his sentencing to seven years in prison highlights the seriousness of these matters.

Nicola told Charles Russell Speechlys on 1 November that she needs to discuss with you before proceeding.

I would be very grateful if you could please kindly provide an update.

Kind regards,

Nick
